

A Big Name Eyes the Ad Blocking Market

Posted by Derek A. Lackey, Editor / June 11, 2017

Google is poised to enter the ad blocking arena, with plans to offer a built-in ad blocker for its Chrome browser next year.

According to The Wall Street Journal, the new tool will be more of a quality assurance feature that will block pop-up windows and alert users when they may be exposed to content that could harm their devices.

Coalition for Better Ads.

According to eMarketer estimates, ad blocking in the US will grow by double digits this year and next.

eMarketer defines an ad blocker as...

Read The Full Article

US Ad Blocking Users and Penetration, 2014-2017
	2014	2015	2016	2017
Ad blocking users (millions)	39.7	51.9	69.8	86.6
—% change	61.5%	30.7%	34.4%	24.0%
—% of internet users	15.7%	20.0%	26.3%	32.0%
—% of population	12.5%	16.2%	21.6%	26.5%

Note: internet users of any age who access the internet at least once per month via any device (including a mobile device) with an ad blocker enabled
Source: eMarketer, June 2016

211300 www.eMarketer.com